The A-Z Online Lightroom presets are easy to install and use. They are provided in a dedicated folder on your hard drive (~/.Library/Application Support/Adobe/Lightroom 5.5/Presets/A-Z Online), where * is replaced with your Lightroom folder name. If you don't have space in your ~/.Library/Application Support/Adobe/Lightroom 5.5/Presets folder already for your preset folders, simply create one, add the presets to it, then all future presets you add will automatically be added to this new preset folder. Open your `Library/Application Support/Adobe/Lightroom 5.5/Presets` folder and drag and drop the new Preset folder you've created onto it. Once the folder is in your `Library/Application Support/Adobe/Lightroom 5.5/Presets` folder, from your Finder window, select the folder and, with your mouse, right-click on it. Next, select Show Package Contents. You'll see "simple folder" as the initial default. Select "Adobe/Creative Cloud" and update the folders to your `~/Library/Application Support/Adobe/Lightroom 5.5/Presets` and this will change the view to "Lightroom Presets", and allow you to drag the folders that you've created in the Presets folder of the main app onto the secondary one. Once your new presets have been added, try them out by opening an image (without specifying the name of the preset in the `Presets/Untitled.icm` file, your new preset will be applied automatically). e3d0a04c9c

Flashback is a great tool for making minor adjustments to color photos. For example, you can quickly change to the color mode of your choice while applying an artistic effect, or quickly brighten or darken a photo. To make manipulation a bit easier, native adjustments, like Curves, can now be viewed or applied without leaving the Flashback tool. The new Content-Aware Fill feature allows you to identify and fill in areas between objects (like between skin and a chair in your photo) that are different. The feature is surprisingly accurate, and it's only limited by the number of people with access to the photos you're using to train the AI. The new Local Adjustments panel in the Adjustment Brush lets you check or edit specific areas of an image without having to paint over the entire photo. The Brush tool now has a Spot Healing option that automatically locates similar areas in the photo. The Actions panel gives you a set of actions to quickly replicate common photo tasks. A new Panorama Stabilizer feature lets you crop an image and add a panorama to a photo without having to be in Photoshop. A new Stabilizer feature in the Lens Blur filter lets you blur images even further so that you can remove any unwanted objects or elements from the photo. A new Refine Edge feature allows for more fine-tuning of the smoothing and detailing features of a layer, and includes adjustments for sharpening. The Greenscreen effect lets you easily add any background you want to a photo. You can now also add or remove separate adjustment layers for different parts of the photo. Finally, Content-Aware Crop enables you to crop images based on a photo from a different part of your library.
